

Robert Gunn

Robert Gunn is the Strategic Marketing Manager for Oxford Instruments Plasma Technology. He comes from a technical background with over 25 years of process experience in running both Application and New Product Developments teams in the fields of plasma etch and deposition. Robert has led teams that have developed new integrated applications solutions combining both process and technology at the tactical and strategic level across the broad breath of the Plasma Technology portfolio.